Customs duties billed to you as the importer

These charges come from carriers or customs brokers billing you for import duties. On these shipments your business may have been the importer of record. If so, refunds would come from U.S. Customs (CBP) rather than from a supplier, usually through your customs broker. Ask your broker whether a refund request has been filed for these entries. These amounts are not included in the totals above.

Billed by	Invoice #	Date	Label as printed	Amount
FedEx Trade Networks (sample)	2-814-55102	Jul 8, 2025	IEEPA Tariff	$412.75

Charges reviewed and left out

Listed for transparency. These were found but not included, either by the rules (non-IEEPA programs, unrelated surcharges, outside the IEEPA period) or because you rejected them.

Supplier	Date	Label as printed	Why left out	Amount
Summit Steel & Metals (sample)	Aug 14, 2025	Section 232 Steel Tariff Surcharge	Non-IEEPA tariff (e.g. Section 232/301)	$214.50
Summit Steel & Metals (sample)	Aug 14, 2025	Fuel Surcharge	Not a tariff charge	$42.00

Other possibly relevant documents

Price-increase notices and supplier statements do not produce amounts in this pack, but you may want to keep them with it. A statement listing an invoice you did not upload may point to more surcharges.

How this pack was prepared

1. You uploaded the documents listed in the manifest below. Each file was fingerprinted (SHA-256) on receipt.
2. Each page was read by an AI model instructed to copy text exactly as printed, and to return nothing it could not read.
3. Every non-product charge was checked against a list of tariff-related wording. Charges naming Section 232, Section 301, antidumping or countervailing duties, and unrelated surcharges (fuel, card fees, freight) were left out.
4. Invoice dates were compared with the period when IEEPA duties were collected (February 3, 2025 to February 24, 2026).
5. Where only a rate was printed, the amount was calculated from the printed subtotal; the calculation is shown in the table.
6. You reviewed and confirmed each line before this pack was generated. Only confirmed lines are in the totals.

Integrity manifest

SHA-256 fingerprints of the source files. Anyone can recompute these to confirm the files were not changed.
